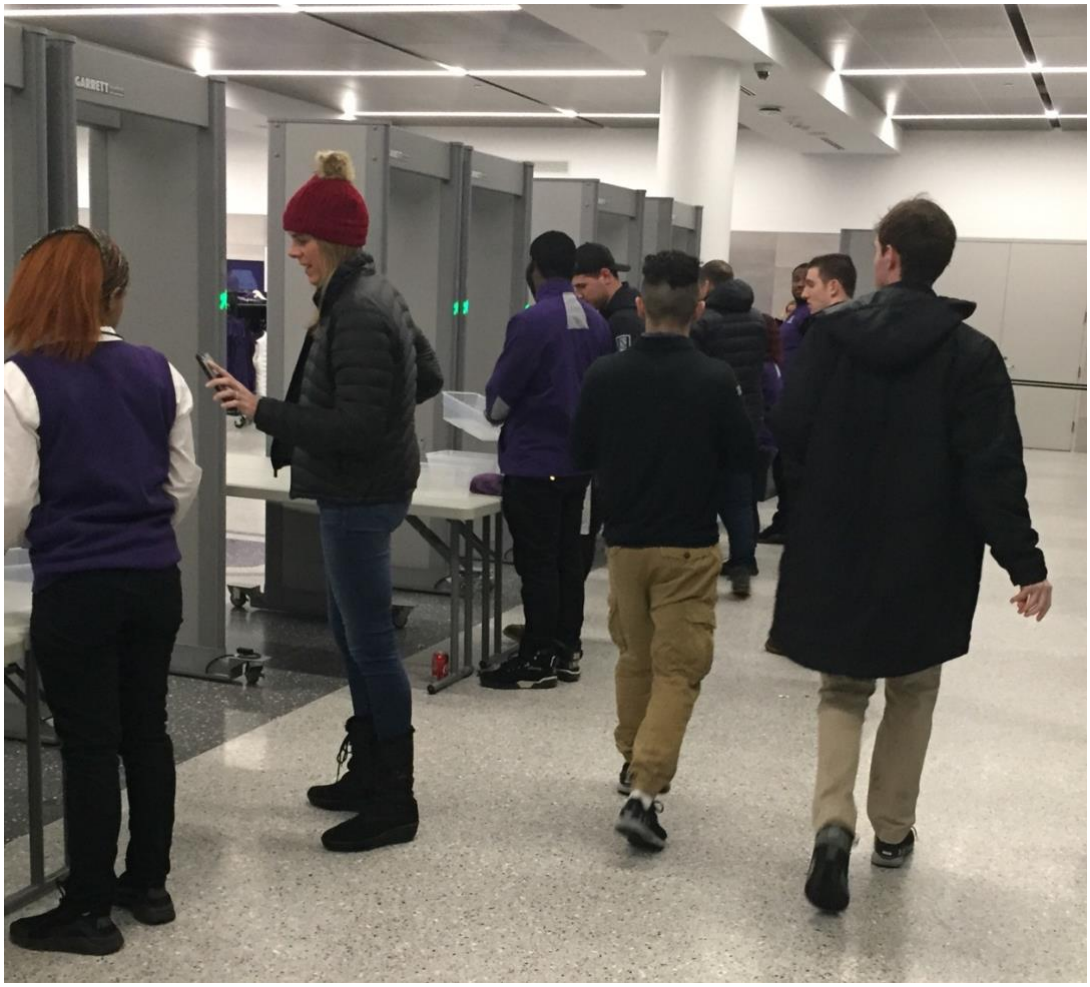
Northwestern holds the lead against Indiana as Pardon and Falzon combine for 38 points

By Nadeem Patel



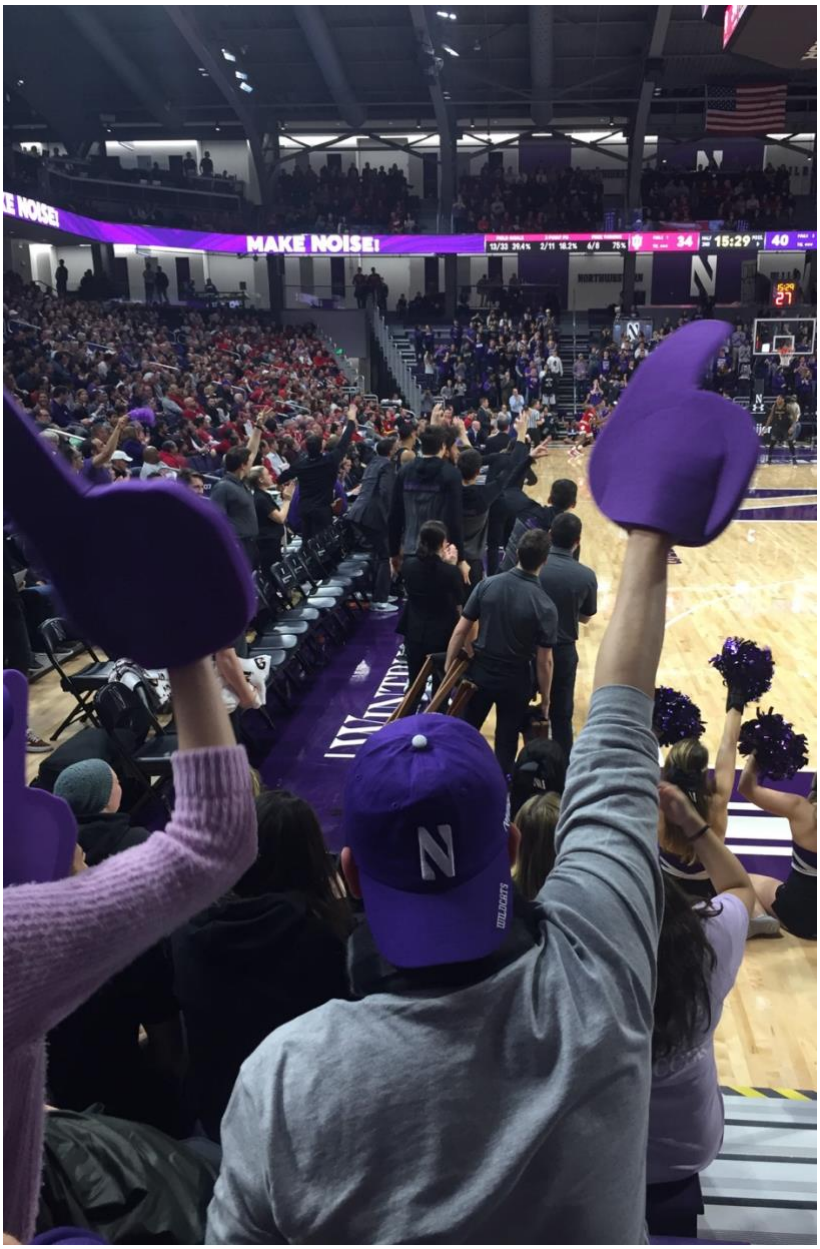
Fans go through security to enter the Walsh-Ryan Arena to watch Northwestern Wildcats take on the Indiana Hoosiers.

Northwestern’s Dererk Pardon throws a floater over the defender as the Wildcats trail 16-8 early in the game.

Indiana huddles during a Northwestern timeout while leading 20-13 with 7:09 remaining in the first half.

“We’re playing pretty well right now. Falzone got his shot going. We just got to keep feeding him the ball second half,” said Northwestern junior Kyle Rosen, 20, as the Wildcats lead 28-24 going into halftime.

A.J. Turner attempts a three-point field goal early in the second half to extend Northwestern's lead to 33-24.



Northwestern fans cheer as the Wildcats attempt to stop the Hoosiers from cutting into a 6-point lead.

Indiana's Rob Phinisee lobs an inbound pass to Justin Smith for an alley-oop attempt as Indiana trails 58-53 in the second half.

Indiana’s bench and fans celebrate as Rob Phinisee dunks during a comeback attempt late in the second half.

"Indiana was ranked 25 last week, so this is a pretty big win. Hopefully, we can continue to build on this little win streak," said Northwestern junior Andrew Scherl, 21, after Northwestern wins its second straight game.

Aaron Falzon preparing to do a postgame interview after scoring 21 points in the victory over Indiana.

Sources:

Kyle Rosen, 20, junior, Economics and History, Northwestern University, Syosset, New York, 516-510-8501

Andrew Scherl, 21, junior, Radio/TV/Film and Legal Studies, Northwestern University, Ridgefield, Connecticut, 914-413-0042